After travelling round the world for almost half a week and moving through nineteen time zones, we step off the helicopter. We are at the beginning of the Karimskaya River in the of Kamchatka. It's a bright sunny day and in the far I can see the Karimski volcano. In the past, when explorers arrived in a place, they put up their tents or cooked a meal. But , when explorers arrive in a new place, they log on to their social networking site using a satellite phone. Sites like Facebook and Twitter also help if we have a problem. Someone in our group touched a strange plant and suddenly his skin was red and . I asked for advice on Twitter. Minutes later, someone who knew this part of Russia replied, "Probably a Pushki plant. If it is, it'll hurt but it won't kill you!"

Cricket is an outdoor team sport. It developed in England. It is also very popular in places that England once ruled as colonies. These countries are Australia, India and so on. Cricket is played on an oval field. People play it with a bat and a ball. In the center of the field there is a pitch. The pitch is twenty metres long and three metres wide.

Two teams of eleven players compete in a cricket game or a match. When a cricket match starts, there are two players in the pitch. They stand opposite each other. They carry bats and are called batsmen. One batsman, the striker, uses his bat to hit the ball. The second batsman runs to get the ball. The team that scores more points wins. Cricket matches with scores in the hundreds are common.
